COUNTRY CLUB NOW SEEMS A CERTAINTY

Committee of Five Is Named To Advise For Bids For Land

PROSPECT BRIGHT FOR NEW PROJECT

Tract Will be Bought And Then Improved For Golf Course

The proposed golf and country club for the Twin Cities today was believed to be a certainty, following a meeting of those interested, held last night in the chamber of commerce rooms, when a committee of five was named to advise for bids for a tract of land to be used by the club. The committee is composed of L. W. Burton, chairman, Will Wyker, T. A. Bowles, W. W. Fussell, Charles Rountree.

It was requested that any persons desiring to offer a tract of land to the committee submit the bid to L. W. Burton, not later than May 8, when the tract is expected to be opened and the club reserves the right to reject any of the offers made it.

The members gathered last night determined to have a tract of land not less than 40 acres in size and not necessarily more than 80 acres. It is desired to obtain a tract near the Twin Cities as possible, in order that the links may be more convenient to members residing within these cities.

Membership Campaign. Those interested in the establishment of a golf and country club here have been quietly conducting a membership campaign during the past few weeks, feeling the public pulse and rapidly lining up those who desire to become charter members of the organization.

It is planned to spend approximately $7,500 in the purchase, outright, of a tract of land suitable for a golf course. About $2,500 is expected to be expended in improvement of this area and in the construction of a small club house for the convenience of those using the course.

From time to time, as the club grows in numerical and financial strength, those behind the movement, hope to erect a more commodious building, further improve the links, add, perhaps other recreational features and to make of the golf and country club an organization which will fill a long felt want here, in providing a recreational and social center.

ALBANY SCHOOL TO BE READY IN FALL

An informal meeting of the Board of Education of Albany held Friday night, a report was received from R. G. Alexander, of St. Louis, one of the architects in charge of the erection of the new high school, building.

Prof. R. W. Cowart, Superintendent of the city schools, also attended the meeting and reported Saturday morning that full assurances were given by Mr. Alexander that the building would be completed in time for the fall term of school. Mr. Alexander expressed himself as satisfied with the grade of material being used by Batson-Cook, the building contractors, and with the progress being made, stated Mr. Cowart.

The board of education has as its personal representative on the inspection of the work on the building, G. M. Baker, architect, who is also representative of W. B. Ither and Company of St. Louis, the firm responsible to the board of education for the completion of the building. Mr. Alexander makes regular trips from St. Louis to consult with the board of education and to inspect the progress being made on the high school building.

ADOPT ORDINANCES PROVIDING PAVING

Four Measures Passed By City Council In Special Meeting

CITY BEAUTIFUL CLUB ASKS HELP

Speakers Urge Council To Undertake Eleven Helps to Health

Passage of four ordinances, relating to the uncompleted paving program of the City of Albany, by the council last night, moved a long step nearer the completion of street improvement here.

With a full attendance of the council, at the special meeting, and with a number of visitors also attending, action was taken providing for finishing up the street work, under the original specifications as to the kind of materials to be used.

The council last night also heard a number of requests from representatives of the City Beautiful Club, and promised full cooperation to that organization in making the city more beautiful and healthier.

Every member of the council, with the exception of Alderman Cherry, was present. President C. E. Sitterson presided. Mayor Britain also was present.

Ordinances Passed.

The council adopted four ordinances last night, which move will lead to early commencement of work on the streets. The ordinances were submitted by City Engineer Bingham and cover plans for improvement of Sixth avenue, Second avenue from Jackson street to Prospect Drive, Third avenue West and Fourth Avenue West. The original specifications, drawn some years ago, will be followed.

The ordinances covering the whole project were adopted by the council and will be published in The Daily. Just before adjournment, the council asked Mayor Britain and City Engineer Bingham to order a carload of drain pipe.

Eleven Requests Made.

Headed by Mrs. L. P. Troup, the president, a delegation from the City Beautiful club appeared before the council with eleven requests for aiding the club in the present clean-up campaign. In addition to Mrs. Troup, others from the club appearing before the council were: Mrs. A. A. Haradage, Mrs. W. B. Edmundson, vice presidents, Miss Sabine Dupont, Mrs. Thomas Hodson, Dr. H. C. McRee, A. A. Haradage and others.

Among the suggestions of the club to the council were that the city furnish garbage cans for the business districts and school grounds; that trees on Jackson street, which have been cut and left on the street, be removed; that some trees on Eighth avenue be removed; that Second avenue be kept more sightly; that several alleys in the city be thoroughly cleaned; that the city furnish plants and labor to the club and that its members supervise the planting and caring for park areas on Jackson street; that a hydrant and walks be provided for the park in charge of Mrs. Pryor in West Albany; that the present city dump be removed.

Local Advantages May Be Sent Over World From Broadcasting Station

In the near future it is probable the Albany-Decatur chamber of commerce will accept the courtesy of the Alabama Power Company to broadcast a statement from that company's broadcasting station at Birmingham, setting forth the commercial, industrial and many other advantages of this section, according to a statement made by J. W. Clouten this morning.

Mr. Clouten made the statement in the course of a conversation with Rev. Herman L. Turner, who passed through the Twin Cities this morning accompanied by his little son, Herman Jr., on his way to Sheffield, after having spoken at Birmingham yesterday evening through the broadcast station of the power company of the advantages of Sheffield.

Mr. Turner, who is Vice President of the Sheffield chamber of commerce was sent to Birmingham by that organization yesterday morning in company with a number of other prominent men and women of Sheffield.

COURTS IN 2 CITIES HAMMER THE CULT

Colony is Characterized As Fraud By One Judge's Decision

STATE EXPECTED TO ACT SPEEDILY

Hope For Prevention Of Court Inquiry Now Appears Gone

(Associated Press.)

GRAND RAPIDS, April 28.—The House of David colony and Benjamin and Mary Purnell, its leaders, were characterized as "frauds" in a written decision filed by Judge John E. Sater today.

Judge Sater, in his opinion, awards compensation to John and Margaret Hansel for their services while members of the colony.

The Hansels' originally residents of Nashville, Tenn., brought suit in federal court to obtain recompense for sums they said they had donated to the colony upon their entrance and for compensation for labor performed.

Not only the elder Hansel, but their three children as well, were granted compensation for labor performed at behest of Purnell under the court's ruling. Sums ranging from $75 to $200 a year were awarded each of the children until they had obtained their majority.

Mrs. Hansel, from the time she entered the colony until the beginning of the war, is allowed $240 a year and is to receive compensation from the period of the war until her withdrawal of $425 a year. Her husband received a net income of $550 a year up until the time the war started. From that time until 1920 his compensation is fixed at $1200 a year.

In this decision he court said "Purnell, for his own protection and to prevent disclosures by investigation conducted by public officials as to evil practices attributed to him, has claimed divine character and has deliberately and systematically taught utterance of falsehoods and the commission of perjury," on the part of his followers.

The trial of the suit several weeks ago brought charges of immorality against Benjamin Purnell and these charges were the result of quo warranto proceedings in the Ingham County circuit court, at Lansing as a step toward possible disbanding of the cult and the present grand jury investigation of the organization now underway at St. Joseph.

MUSIC IS FEATURE AT BAPTIST REVIVAL

The music was a special feature at the Central Baptist last night when singer Fred Scholfield led the large chorus choir and the crowded house in singing the old time hymns. "On Jordan's Stormy Banks I Stand" is the campaign hymn and is sung each service. Members of the Decatur Baptist choir joined the chorus last night and Mesdames Karbrich and Todd sang a duet "Drifting." The willingness of all to do a part was shown by Reverends Dillard, Davison and Weaver responding with a trio, "They did the best they could" said the leader as he appealed to the audience to follow them. Members of other choirs, not engaged, are invited to join the large chorus.

There will be services at 7:15 o'clock this evening when more time will be given to a special song service and Dr. Dillard will be briefer in his sermon. The usual services tomorrow at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m., while Dr. Dillard will speak to men only at 3 p. m. On Monday at 3 p. m. he will address an audience of women only.

The text of the evening was "The wages of sin is death but the free gift of God is eternal life through our Lord Jesus Christ." The minister out of his wide experience told many interesting stories and illustrations. He said "as the jeweler displays his gems on a dark velvet background so Paul gives this gem on a dark black ground. 'The gift of God' is displayed on the dark background of 'the wages of sin.' Several dramatic illustrations were given to show that the 'wages of sin is death.' The speaker then illustrated the free gift of God's love by the mother's love to the new born babe. 'The babe cannot and does not purchase the mother's love. The son does not buy the father's love nor his gifts. So eternal life is the free gift of God. It is the most precious and is the greatest gift. The minister showed that this gift comes through Jesus Christ our Lord and the gift of God. At the close several responded to the invitations.

Negro Personnel For Hospital, Plan

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Plans to make the personnel of the new government hospital for negro soldiers at Tuskegee, Ala., wholly negroes were discussed with President Harding today by Roscoe Simmons, of Chicago, editor of a negro newspaper. The plans to turn over the hospital completely to negroes have been under consideration by the President and the federal board for hospitalization for several weeks, and the Chicago editor, on leaving the white house, said he had been assured the change would be completed within the next 30 days.

OIL FIELD AFFECTED AS REVOLT BREWS

Attorney In Court At Seattle Warns Of Consequences

"MAY DAY FETE" IN CONTROVERSY

Secretary Denies That General Strike Will Be Called Soon

(Associated Press.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., April 28.—Spread into a Southern California oil fields of the I. W. W. strike, which previously had affected only marine and forest workers and a declaration in court that delay in the trial of two men, said to be members of the I. W. W., might result in the revocation were he outstanding points of the demonstration today.

The declaration regarding a revolution was made in police court in Seattle, where H. M. Peters and O. A. Steenor faced a charge of making threats to workers on the docks. It was made by their attorney George Vanderveer in opposing a continuance of their trial, which nevertheless, was set for May 15.

"Thousands of workers are in Seattle to enforce their rights," Vanderveer said. "Labor is impatient. These men are entitled to a trial hearing. Unless they get it, I think they are responsible for what happens. A revolution may result from delay."

CHICAGO, April 28.—A twelve hour international "May Day" demonstration and dance" is to be held by the I. W. W. next Tuesday in Chicago, but no demonstration of a general nature has been planned, Jack Gillis, secretary of the Industrial Workers of the World, declared today.

Gillis denied a statement by Oswald W. Powell, national director of the American Legion that the I. W. W. had called a general strike. He said that only I. W. W. strikes are the marine transport workers and the lumber workers in the northwest.

Reports that the I. W. W. were planning a radical outbreak on May 1 were declared by Gillis to be without foundation.

MRS. SIDNEY LANIER CHANGES HER MIND

(Associated Press.)

MACON, Ga., April 28.—Mrs. Sidney Lanier, of Atlanta, who yesterday filed notice of withdrawal of her suit against her husband and his father, Dr. J. V. Lanier, of Macon, for alimony and divorce and $50,000 heart balm, has exercised the prerogative of her sex and reversed her actions. Today Oliver C. Hancock, leading counsel for Mrs. Lanier, filed with the clerk of the superior court orders, signed by his client, annulling the message directed by her yesterday to the clerk of the court, stating her desire to drop the prosecution.

A conference was held in the law offices of William Scheley Howard, in Atlanta, last evening, attended by Macon and Atlanta attorneys. Mrs. Lanier told of the circumstances which resulted in the placing of her signatures to the two telegrams, one to the clerk of Bibb court and the other to Oliver C. Hancock, asking that the cases be dropped. She said that Lanier insisted that he see her and that when she finally consented young Lanier appeared at her home in Atlanta with the telegrams written out and threatened to spend the rest of his life in jail, rather than pay alimony as he had been directed by Superior Court Judge Mathews.

Lanier also promised her, she said, that if she would drop the charges against him and his father, that he would go to work and support her without the necessity of a court order. She is quoted as saying that she was in no mental condition to discuss the matter with Lanier, she affixed her signature to the telegrams which she had written.

THE RESPONSIVE POWER OF INDUSTRIAL AMERICA.

The ability of the United States to respond so magnificently from a business and industrial standpoint, has been commented on frequently by many speakers and writers. It is doubtful if a more convincing and optimistic statement on this subject has ever been made than the one by James R. Crawford, given out at Jacksonville, Fla. recently. Mr. Crawford says in part:

"The little short of marvelous the way in which the United States has recovered its stride after the disrupting march of the war. All of the dire predictions of the pessimists in regard to the difficulties we would experience in re-absorbing into our industrial life the great mass of discharged soldiers, have proved false. All the wild and disquieting talk about the dangers of bolshevism and the spread of radical doctrines has likewise been shown to have had no foundation in fact."

Particularly remarkable and gratifying is the comeback from industrial depression that the South has made. I doubt if at any previous period the agricultural prospects of the Southern States were so promising; aided by vast acreage reclaimed by draining and by intensive and scientific study of the soils the southern farmer and fruit grower is filling an even larger space in the markets of the world. And in industry, also, especially in cotton weaving and kindred arts the Southern States have entered into keen and healthy competition with the New England States. And I am glad to note that Southern industries as well as those in other parts of the nation have apparently learned and taken to heart the lesson as to the value of advertising in the daily press. Very fine barometers of business are the advertising columns of the daily paper which after all is the best advertising medium in the world when backed up by the proper advertising to the jobber, wholesaler and retailer in the business trade press.

"One of the chief factors in bringing business back to normal has been the retail dealer. By co-operating with the jobber and manufacturer the utilization of the modern merchandising methods, the use of newspaper advertising, window displays and other advertising material and by teaching his clerks salesmanship, he has speeded the wheels of commerce and aided in the task of re-establishing prosperity."

"Only a country as resilient, quick to sense new value and grasp new opportunities; a country with a spirit large enough to march alongside the splendid opportunities America offers could have got back into a steady business step as quickly as our country has done. There has been no gulf created between capital and labor; instead there is a growing realization that the interests of capital and labor, so far from being opposed, are identical. Fearing a great influx of cheap labor from the distraught countries of Europe our Congress passed a selective immigration law designed to keep our own American workmen from being swamped by cheap competition. Really such a law may not have been needed at all, for business and industry has taken on such a sturdy, new vitality that there is actually a shortage of labor and there is no excuse today for any man being without a job at good wages."

The Royal wedding in England is about on a par for excitement over there as Babe Ruth coming to bat over here.

If bootlegging were work there would be no danger of people overdoing the occupation.

The long time dancers are paying high for it but it is worth it—to some of them.

PREVENTION BETTER THAN CURES.

If there were such a thing as "bad" prevention, it would be better than the best of cures. This statement will hold good in every relation and activity of life. But in nothing, perhaps, is prevention so valuable as in the care of property against fire. This community has been visited by many fires of late and they would have been exceedingly disastrous ones, if it had not been for the splendid service rendered by the fire departments. The big fire reported yesterday in connection with the local fires, should serve to remind once again that too great care cannot be exercised in the prevention of fires. The dry days now coming more frequently than during some periods in the past will tend to increase the danger from fires, and as the danger increases there should be a corresponding increase in carefulness.

After the warmer weather comes and there are fewer fires in the houses the danger from fires will decrease somewhat, but never is danger from fire eliminated. Fires may not be entirely avoided, but sufficient care will reduce them to a minimum. Prevention is the sure cure against losses by fire.

The dancing contest business evidently was not a pleasant one for one young lady of Norfolk, Va., who says she would not go through with another one "for a million dollars."

After the occupation of the Ruhr is over possibly it will be known who won the war.

A TRAIN OF THOUGHTS FOR SABBATH AND OTHER DAYS

By J. E. Blair

The morning of faith dawned with the birth of the divine Messiah; its noonday came when men thought who they believed would be a human Messiah rode in triumph in the streets of ancient Jerusalem; faith's twilight came when the Christ began to tell His disciples that His kingdom was not of this world. There was the blackness of positive despair for faith when such men as Peter wavered. But faith was dead when more faithful ones were heard to say after the crucifixion: "We hoped that it was He who should redeem Israel."

Now divine faith is always dead until Christ speaks. It was He who alone spoke a new hope and a new faith into those two men on the road to Emmaus. Jesus Himself drew near and went with them, the good book says. It was His divine power that enabled those people to say "Did not our hearts burn within us as He talked with us by the way?" And later Christ is spoken of as chiding because a certain folly and slowness of heart that prevented belief in all that the Prophets had spoken concerning Him. The knowledge that the Lord had been with those early doubting but anxious followers of His, dispelled the darkness and implanted a new faith. They could not forget the radiant stranger that had walked with them in the way. They testified to others of His presence. And in passing it might be remarked that lack of personal testimony as to what Christ is and has done is one big trouble today. There are other big troubles, but the lack of testimony is one of them. Nobody will deny this. Those who know what they are talking about in spiritual matters say that "simple testimony as to what God has done holds in its possession that incommunicable ineffable and transcendent force which we call life."

And the appearance of Christ after the crucifixion helped to remind what a friend He had been, of his kindly manner, His wonderful teaching, His healing power. The thought of the physical appearances of Christ have their value. The beloved disciple is represented in a poem as valuing the personal presence of the Master and is credited in the poem as saying that Christ called him first at evening time and as testifying that "there for the first time I looked upon that sweet face, and His eyes looked in upon my soul and lighted it forever."

Today we are denied a physical vision of Christ, but we can see the beauty of His character, and all admit Christian and non-believer alike, that it is character that really counts. The life of faith today consists in thinking, feeling and willing, and in struggling forward, either to faint some day by the wayside or to be led on to victory. New choices, new purposes, new heights, new depths and new possible possessions are continually before us. If we, although being dead, hear the voice of Christ, yet shall we live. He can quicken a dead faith now as He did over 1900 years ago, and once we have spiritual faith we are bound once more to the Savior and can truly be said to have experienced religion.

Old Home Songs in Bright Light Clubs Make Even Cops Forget to Raid

New York City—No matter how civilized the New Yorker becomes, a little spark of country will still make him kin to his neighbor.
This is being proved on the star-spangled white way where every night at the supper clubs and mid-night rendezvous haunts, fashionable night owls lustily yell the chorus of "Saw Mill River Road" as the million dollar orchestras play the old-fashioned tune.

Patti Harrold, herself a pretty country product, started all the reminiscence craze with the lyrics she sings in "Glory".

Each night the same old story: "Down there in the olden land."

"And it just proves," Miss Harrold adds softly, "that romance isn't dead, only covered up with frivolity. Underneath, New York is all sentiment."

New York Letter
by Lucy Jeanne Price

NEW YORK, April 28.—The report that Mrs. Frederick Courland Penfield, widow of the ex-ambassador to Austria, is to marry A. Morris Bagby, musician, has created a flutter of excitement which promised to out-flutter most of the other society rumors of the year. It's mostly because Mrs. Penfield is one of the richest women in the world. The daughter of the late William Weightman, of Philadelphia she inherited some sixty millions of dollars, and sixty million are a good many, even in these days.

One of the most important musical events of this New York season was our introduction to the works of Hans Pfitzner, modernist Russian-German composer. Although he has made a sensation in Europe, Mr. Pfitzner is practically unknown in this country—or was until this program of his works given the other evening by Carl Friedberg at the Institute of Musical Art, assisted by Samuel Gardner, violinist, and William Willeke, cellist. Pfitzner has a particularly abstract quality in his music which seems at first to preclude any warmth, until one becomes accustomed to the spirit and method. There are particularly interesting harmonies through his compositions and a sense of dramatic structure. He is as "modern" as Schoenberg and Milhaud, and yet one thinks of Wagner when he is played. Mr. Friedberg, the celebrated European pianist who is here this season to give a course at the Institute will give another program of Pfitzner's work before his departure.

Samuel Mirich, Colorado miner, is the most persistent lover I have heard of in these recent years of dying romance. Twice he went to Jugo-Slavia in an attempt to wed the lady of his choice and twice he brought her to this country only to have her deported. After spending more than $5,000 and traveling a total of 18,400 miles, he at last was successful, and the couple are now honeymooning here at the Slavonic Home for Immigrants.

The happy day seems to have arrived when the smart and elegant thing is simplicity and extreme avoidance of ostentation. Whenever Cathleen Vanderbilt, daughter of Reginald, has appeared in public since the announcement of her engagement, the eyes of every woman within farsighted distance of her have turned to her left-hand third finger, ready to gasp in awe at the diamond which should meet their gaze. But lo! They had to look twice before they could to the Harvard playwriting classes, with a guarantee of a Broadway production within six months. The judges are Professor Baker, of Harvard, Robert C. Benchley, drama editor of "Life", and Richard C. Herndon.

Darwinism.

Darwinism is the doctrine that later species or forms of animals and plants have been developed out of earlier ones by a process of natural selection, supplemented in some cases by sexual selection. It was advocated by Charles Darwin (1809-1882), especially in his "Origin of Species," and "The Descent of Man."

Among the Well-Bred.

Among well-bred people, a mutual deference is affected; contempt of others disguised; authority concealed; attention given each in his turn; and an easy stream of conversation is maintained, without vehemence, without interruption, without eagerness for victory, and without any air of superiority.—Hume.

Tried by Tribulation.

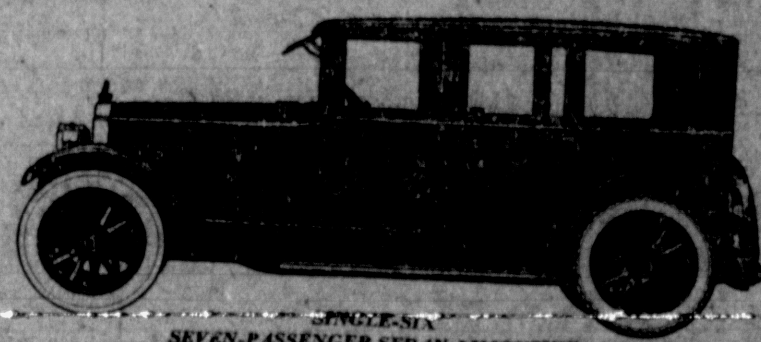

Thou art never at any time nearer to God than when under tribulation; which He permits for the purification and beautifying of thy soul.—Miguel Molinos.

Fancy Work Limit.

The other day a Eureka man in friendly chat with a neighbor, among other things, asked him if his wife did fancy work. "Great Scott," he exclaimed, "she won't even let a possum plaster come into the house without crocheting a red border around it and running a yellow ribbon through the holes."—Eureka Herald.

THREE REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD PLACE YOUR ORDER FOR NEXT WINTER'S COAL

You would do well to consider the following facts:

1. The ENIRE OUTPUT of the best Alabama mines has already been sold for the next twelve months. The local dealers have contracts for a limited amount of this coal, and when this is all gone THERE WILL NOT BE ANY MORE.

2. While there is still some coal for sale in the East Tennessee and Jellico fields, operators in these districts are rapidly closing up contracts for what is left, and before cold weather the price will be prohibitive.

3. Conditions in West Kentucky are not easy to understand. For some reason, coal in these fields is now selling below cost of production, and we are warned that a big increase may be at any time.

Long-Distance Smokes.
Extraordinary briar pipes, with stems over three feet long, are now on sale in the West end of London. They draw well and are as cool to smoke as an Oriental "bubble-bubble," but your trouble really begins when you try to light them. A candle is the only possible way, and you must also have a small table to rest the bowl on.

Penn's Words of Wisdom.
Lend not beyond thy ability, nor refuse to lend out of thy ability; especially when it will help others more than it can hurt thee. If thy debtor be honest and capable, thou hast thy money again, if not with increase, with praise. If he prove insolvent, do not ruin him to get that which it will not ruin thee to lose; for thou art but a steward, and judge.—Penn.

Power Needed for Steamer.
It requires just double the power to propel a steamship twenty miles an hour it takes to drive the same vessel sixteen miles an hour.

That "V"-Shaped Vest.
The V-shaped opening of a waistcoat is really a piece of vanity, giving the wearer a chance to show what sort of shirt he wears. It originated in the days when linen was first worn, and the man who could sport a linen shirt was considered something of a "swell." He had the opening cut in his waistcoat so that all could see his elegance.

Traffic Cop Will Be Put To Work

Determined to prevent auto accidents in the city of Decatur, Mayor Nelson will put a "Traffic Cop" to work Monday, he stated this morning. This action was taken following the trial of 21 cases in the Mayor's court recently, where persons were charged with violation of the traffic ordinances of the city.

Mr. Nelson stated that for the present he had suspended sentences and fines in all of the 21 cases, pending such a time as in his judgment the drivers of automobiles and other vehicles, shall have had full opportunity to become familiar with the traffic laws of the city.

One of the chief duties of the new traffic officer, according to Mayor Nelson will be to teach what is legal and what is illegal as regards the use of the public thoroughfares.

For one thing, Mayor Nelson pointed out that it was illegal for drivers to turn their vehicles around, except at the intersection of the streets and avenues and fast speeding was referred to as strictly forbidden.

OLD ALGIERS BACKGROUND OF DEAN HIT.

"Under Two Flags" Carries One Back to Quaint Spot in Old World. Masonic Today.

The longing in the hearts of all for travel and adventure heightens the popular appeal of "Under Two Flags," the great Universal dramatization of Ouida's famous novel, which comes to the Masonic Theatre today. Theatre goers are transported for an evening to Algeria, the French province of Northern Africa, where this immortal romance unfolds. With Priscilla Dean as Cigarette, the beautiful girl of Algiers, they live the life of French army post, have a glimpse of a shiek's luxurious palace and ride with a cavalry troop across the desert in a mad race against death.

Tod Browning, director of "Under Two Flags," has caught the foreign atmosphere of the story in every foot of film. The plot is one of love and danger that might be told in any language, but he has built up a romantic photoplay that fairly breathes the spirit of the African desert.

Hundreds of persons were engaged for this spectacular undertaking. A portion of the city of Algiers was duplicated at Universal City, including the French barracks there. The interior of a shiek's palace was built on one of the huge studio stages.

Miss Dean is superb in the role of the impulsive Cigarette, now tender, now savagely beautiful. It is the same type of part in which she startled the theatre going public in "The Virgin of Stamboul" two years ago. The tremendous popularity of "Under Two Flags" through several decades is finding renewed expression in the reception accorded Universal's film dramatization of the novel.

MANY WONDERFUL SCENES IN "OMAR THE TENTMAKER."

Princess Today.

"Omar the Tentmaker," which is scheduled to start a one day engagement at the Princess theatre today has been hailed as the screen's most colorful offering. Guy Bates Post is the star of the picture, which was produced by Richard Walton Tully and is being released as a First National attraction.

Here are some of the artistic settings it contains:

A rose garden with fountains splashing in the silvery moonlight—a poetic youth and a beautiful maid. The streets of golden Naisapur, bustling with pilgrims, natives, vendors of everything imaginable, caravans of camels, bands of Bedouins on Arabian steeds and beggars. A tavern with bibulous youths roistering in the immemorial manner. The mystic Temple of Zoroaster, its altar looming up in the semi-darkness of the interior, its minarets where the muezzins chant their call to prayer. The gardens of the Governor, with slaves who carry out his slightest wish, for his wish is law. The dungeon cells—"the home of ten thousand shadows"—in which the doomed await their execution, or the far greater dread of torture. The potter's shop, emblematic of the seat of the Maker of Mankind, and the clay on the wheel as the clay in his hands. The halls of the mighty Shah of Shah, whose wealth can buy for his leering senility even the fairest flower of all Persia. The study of the philosopher-poet, Omar, the Tentmaker, son of an artisan father, whose manifold talents compose the eternally beloved quatrains and invent a practicable scientific calendar—a room where scrolls of verses mingle with astronomical instruments.

NEWS OF ATHENS AND LIMESTONE COUNTY

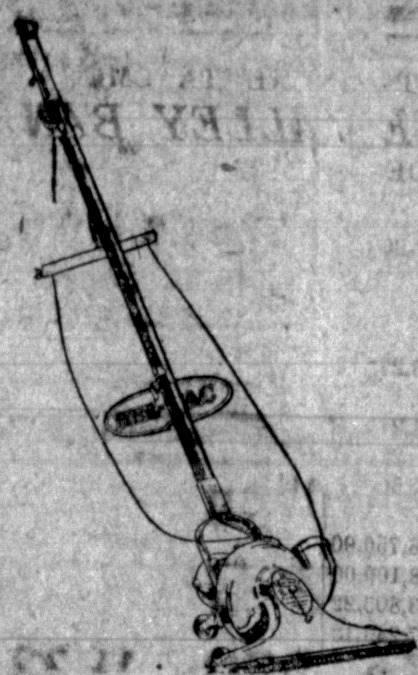

ATHENS, Ala., April 28.—A gathering of great importance was held in Athens Friday morning at the Commercial Club rooms in the Court-house. It was composed of representatives of the Kiwanis Club, the Women's Clubs of Athens, the School and other interests. It was for the purpose of organizing a Library Association. After some discussion it was decided to organize such association for the purpose of promoting a public library in Athens. A constitution and by-laws were read and adopted. The following five persons were elected Trustees of the Association: R. B. Patton, Jerome O. Williams, William S. Peebles, Mrs. Mary Mason and Mrs. R. M. Rawles. After the general meeting the trustees held a meeting in which the organization was perfected. Hon. R. B. Patton was elected President, and Mrs. R. M. Rawles, Secretary-treasurer. Some committees were then appointed by the president as follows: Publicity, Mrs. Elma Cartwright, Mrs. W. F. Willis, Mrs. R. M. Rawles, Mrs. W. S. Peebles, and Dr. J. O. Williams. A committee was then appointed to secure a suitable place for the library. Mrs. Geo. W. Duncan, Mrs. Cox, and Mr. James C. Rankin.

It is the plan of the Association to give publicity to the organization and secure the interest of the people of the community which is already to support the worthy cause and then put on a drive for books, and donations for the library as well as a membership campaign. This is one of the most advanced steps taken in a long time in Athens. The library will be known as Athens Public Library.

BIRD DAY.

I.
Beautiful little birdies so happy and gay
In the tree top sweetly singing all day
Red birds, blue birds, birds of all kind.
Don't you think they are the happiest little creatures you can find.

II.

Don't rob a bird's nest you had little boy
And tell your chum they must not too
You will then be a bird's nest too hear the dove coo.

Look at the difference in the size of a Purina fed chick and the little under weight chick raised on ordinary grain feed. This is not just a picture—it is a fact that has been proved time and time again by poultry raisers everywhere.

Double Development Guaranteed

The double development guarantee absolutely protects you when you buy Purina Chows. Your money will be refunded if your chicks do not grow twice as fast the first six weeks on Purina Chows as when fed grains alone. See us today.
